Birdhouse

Category: New Construction less than 25,000 square feet

Client: Adam Sokol

Architecture firm: Adam Sokol Architecture Practice PLLC

Consultants:

Structural Engineer: Tredo Engineers|

Contractor: A to Z Home Restoration

Juror comments: An adaptation of a simple domestic form, this small house is scaled to its surroundings. Artfully detailed, the architects have packed a lot of program into a small envelope. Playful without being pretentious, the design provides amenities not typically found in much larger residences.

Honor Award 2012

Tata Medical Center, Cancer Hospital, Kolkata, India

Category: New Construction greater than 25,000 square feet

Client: Tata Healthcare Group

Architecture firm:

Design Architect: Cannon Design

Architect of record: Tata Consulting Engineers

Consultants:

Mechanical: Tata Consulting Engineers

Electrical: Tata Consulting Engineers

Civil: Tata Consulting Engineers

Contractor/Construction manager: Shapoorji and Pallonji Co. Ltd.

Juror comments: Elegantly ordered and proportioned, this project creates a calming, transcendental environment for healing. Public spaces are monumental while retaining their human scale. The design responds to its environment – light reflecting and building upon itself, gently illuminating the spaces within. Conveying hope and strength, this project reminded the jury of the work of Kahn and Corbusier, high praise indeed.

Honor Award 2012

CYTS Jiading Office Interior Design, Shanghai, China

Category: Unbuilt architecture

Client: CYTS Hajiang Investment & Development Co. Ltd.

Architecture firm: Cannon Design

Juror comments: This small office interior is rigorously composed to provide a modern environment reflective of its occupants business. Detailed with restraint, the concept is effectively carried throughout the space.
